Another Injured As Carew Lumber Truck Is Overturned

Third War Hinges On Red Menace

Two men who help make American Foreign Policy here, in effect, had the responsibility for the catastrophe of Russia.

The two are U.S. assistant Secretary of State Norman Armour and Senator President Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who is the Republican Foreign Policy leader in Congress.

Armour spoke in Detroit and he said the chances of averting all war were dependent on how well the Russians could hold the Russians.

The Assistant Secretary did not mention Russia by name, but his meaning was clear. He said Western Europe must stop the spread of what he called "the police state." Otherwise, he predicts, there will be another war.

Vandenberg spoke along similar lines at Ann Arbor, Michigan. But he put more stress on the work of the United Nations. He said that if the U.N. fails to save the peace it will be Russia's fault.

Vandenberg went on to urge the United States to continue trying to make the U.N. work by pulling in on down on the use of the veto. But to be on the safe side, he called on the United States to keep its distance alone, 1937.

Labour Feeling Pulse After Election Blow

Russia's War Dead Equals All Other Nations Combined

(BRITISH UNITED PRESS)

The British Cabinet is feeling its pulse, following the nationwide Municipal Elections. The election gave the Labor Party its worst beating it has taken since getting into power more than two years ago.

The Cabinet met Monday to lay about the results of the week-end election. It is understood the discussions were only informal, and that formal talks were held about other government matters.

A high government source says the Labor Party intends to carry out its full program, despite its loss of 44 municipal council seats, and that it will refuse to call a special parliamentary session as demanded by the Conservative.

Simon Robinson of Research, suffered severe lacerations to the face.

Missing Pole Arrives Safe In England

London, Nov. 3 (BUP)—The missing disappearance of Polish Anti-Communist Leader, Mikolajczyk, has been confirmed, he has arrived safely in England.

Mikolajczyk landed in England about 11:30 a.m. after having been through his journey. The announcement was made in the House of Commons by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Later announcement said Mikolajczyk landed shortly before 11:30 a.m. (BUP) But there was no indication whether he had come from the Americas or British Zone of Germany. Rumors were spread Mikolajczyk escaped to America.

Helped At St. Mary's Parish, Msgr. O'Sullivan 50 Yrs. Priest

Peterboro, Nov. 3.—Right Reverend P. J. O'Sullivan, D.P., V.G., pastor of the church of the Immaculate Conception here for the last 15 years celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, Tuesday.

In the last 50 years of the diocese of Peterborough only two other priests attained this distinction and that of the golden jubilee. They were Monsignor Wm. J. McLaughlin and Monsignor M. J. O'Sullivan.

Monsignor O'Sullivan was for 31 years parish priest at Port Hope, and for 10 years of that period was associate editor of the Catholic Record, published in London, Ont., and two years in similar work on the Catholic Register of Toronto. His writings were widely recognized for their literary merit and broad background of erudition.

Tractor Tire Bursts, Dirt Blinds Owner

Okavood, Nov. 3rd, P.N.S.—Mr. C. H. Blumberg, a farmer, was thrown from his tractor when a tire burst, and he was blinded by dirt.

Among them were fellow students of his college and seminary years, associates of the diocese of Peterborough and other friends to the priesthood throughout the province and beyond. It also means the disintegration of the church in which he served during those 50 years, including the parish of Campfield in which he spent his boyhood.

Rural Tour Abroad by IOWA Farmers Sells Them on Our Stake in Europe

By CHARLES HEARST
As told to Mary J. Persons
N.A. Staff Correspondent
CEDAR FALLS, Ia., Oct. 23 (CNA)
If we don't save European this winter, they won't be able to save themselves.

Common, whether we like it or not, must be helped now. A few millionaires there during a period when food production was at its highest during the fall harvest season. Some think the average person was having winter, simply because he had to be able to eat.

We aren't the sort of people who go to Europe for a month and come back with a lot of prejudices, but we did come back convinced of this:

It is better to risk an investment in Europe now, when there are good reasons there that may prevent another war, than to pull out now and let starvation breed the kind of nationalism that is sure to bring on another war.

Before we went over there, I felt that the U.S. and the Midwest had an interest in Europe. Now we are convinced that interest is vital. Only by seeing Europe today can we appreciate the extent of the urgency of the problem.

The main thing on German tables is potato—and the potato crop was bad. Translated into human terms, it could mean starvation on a mass scale this winter. If the Germans don't get more wheat, much of the wheat must come from American farms.

Next year things might be easier for them. But the summer drought has seriously depleted moisture reserves. If that moisture isn't returned to the ground this winter and next spring, or if the farms are hit by drought again, the summer crop will be the same story again.

1947-1948 Fuel Supplies Barely Cover Needs; Factory Lay-Offs, Chilly Homes May Result

By S. BERTON HEATH
N.A. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (CNA)—In the third year of peace, you still may find it difficult to keep your home as warm as you want. There still is the chance that you will have to put in a few days or weeks because of power shortages.

John Lewis does not pull out of his home this winter. It looks now though there would be enough oil, gas, electricity and coal—enough to heat all our homes and power all our factories.

But the margin is so close that the oil, gas, electricity and coal must be distributed with almost

The first saving must be made by interrupting pumping and similar operations involving products that, like water, can be stored. The second saving probably would be made by cutting off, temporarily, industries like chemicals, which for decades have been getting all the power they wanted but may only get a little this winter. This situation exists in the Northwest and in upstate New York, among others.

Meanwhile, many electric companies are disconcerting customers from putting in heavy-duty equipment, like home-heaters, for the summer.

Electricity is an article in actual demand. But even with this, some utilities can't get out enough to run at full capacity. The East Coast situation got bad because of a shortage of tankers in operation, through almost 100 government-owned cargo ships were laid up in midships. In that section signs of lightning have become apparent.

In spite of the commander's best efforts to build up a reserve last summer, they restored the full amount with stocks east of the Rockies under those of a year ago.

POWER: Not enough coal.

OIL: Not enough tankers.

COAL: Not enough cars.

100 per cent efficiency. Let almost anything happen that shouldn't, and those areas may experience hard coal and electricity shortages. Experts in the various fuel fields now want to have it understood that the nation does not face real danger from shortages—although with a low level in the direction of the U.S. Navy's Law; that no body should be laid off for any length of time that whatever shortages may develop should be local and sporadic.

But most of them do not even try to deny that they fear fuel troubles. Careful check of the major fuel industries reveals these situations:

FUEL OIL. The nation's petroleum wells are now producing more crude than we need. There is refinery capacity for more than that, but probably that will not, unless the winter should be unusually severe. But there are few bottlenecks there.

FUEL OIL. The nation's petroleum wells are now producing more crude than we need. There is refinery capacity for more than that, but probably that will not, unless the winter should be unusually severe. But there are few bottlenecks there.

COAL. Coal stockpiles are low. Domestic utilities and large users consider they require dangerously low. Production is at a rate of around 600,000 tons a year, but many experts doubt that. If the winter is severe, this will prove to be enough.

Some mines are on part time because they can not get railroad cars. There is not much storage space at mines. If coal can't be moved, mining stops. The railroads are not 100,000 cars now, compared with only 14,000 a year ago. Every effort is being made to juggle hopper cars to the extent of 100,000 cars. They will all contribute to the danger of a bad coal situation which means no electricity in home heating, and also in gas and electricity and in industrial operations.

Canadians Went From Barter To Banking 130 Years Ago

Bank of Montreal, Canada's First-established Bank, Gave Colonists Their First Real Money—Founded Canadian Branch Banking System in 1817

B of M COMPLETES 75 YEARS ON SECOND CENTURY OF OPERATION

Ontario's oldest banking institution was 130 years old yesterday. Close to Canada, as well as in Ontario the Bank of Montreal although organized in Quebec, had long branches in this province within eight months of its foundation—on York and across the continent—and today the bank has substantially more offices in force than in any other province of the Dominion.

It was in 1817 that the first regular exchange bank began between Kingston and York. That same historic year saw the found-

CANADA'S FIRST MONEY
At the very outset, the young bank issued its own bills in small denominations and, later, copper coins. This money, indeed, was the first real Canadian currency. The innovation did much to stabilize and speed up commerce and industry, which had hitherto been subject to the vicissitudes of exchange of the several currencies of the day.

This was but one aspect of the bank's major contribution to the Canadian economy. That contribution amounted to nothing less than ending the chaos in which business was transacted and organizing the first domestic banking system.

So well did the bank succeed that the system has since evolved without ever losing its stability, no matter how critical the times or how rapid the country's growth. Thus, through more than a century and a half, the Canadian economy has survived two major wars and several panics, as well as periodic depressions and civil unrest.

Today the bank's assets exceed $100 million and it has won world recognition for its rare combination of dynamic growth and tradition.

Much of the bank's economic strength derives from another principle which the bank introduced in Canada. This was the branch-banking system. Within a fortnight of the opening of the first office in Montreal, a network was started in Quebec City. In the

GEORGE W. SPINNEY, E.M.G., president of the bank since 1914, for the past five years of the bank's history has been its chief executive officer. Mr. Spinney was chairman of the Post-Victory Loan Campaign for two years and was chairman of the National War Finance Commission.

First of Canada's first permanent bank—the B of M—was organized in 1817. The date was November 3, and that year's day marked the bank's 130th birthday. To all the intervening years, the B of M has opened for business on every single banking day—an impressive record of how closely and continuously the bank's work has been woven into the vast progress of the country since colonial days.

A good account of the bank has just come down from James Croft, a British settler who later became a Bank of Montreal shareholder for the extraordinary span of 60 years. "I was first forming in Ottawa," he writes, "the first regular business," "we had neither money nor printing nor banking machines, and the women did not sew machine.

The postage on a letter from London to Halifax was two shillings. There was no money in circulation in those days. Everything was done by barter."

Mr. Croft wrote those words referring to Canadian conditions at a time a good deal later in the nineteenth century than 1817. It can be imagined how difficult life was in that even more primitive day.

When the Montreal Bank, as it was then known, first opened its doors the population of Canada was just about half a million. Trade was carried on principally by barter, and to a lesser extent by the use of American, British, French and Portuguese money.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

At Financial Assistance For Ball Park Work From Franchise Council

The regular meeting of the Franchise Council was held with the following members present: J. McChesney, Mayor; Arthur Lee and Dr. G. Johnston.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Messrs. G. O. Wain and Guy Gair met with the council in financial assistance for work done at the new ball park.

Moved by Mr. Lee and seconded by Dr. Johnston that the assessment be accepted as presented by the assessor, and that the sum of $100 be paid on the pay sheet in payment of the assessor's salary.

Moved by Lee and seconded by Dr. Johnston that the accounts outstanding be paid by cheque.

Dr. Johnston called for payment and regular work accounts were passed for payment.

The meeting adjourned. The Franchise Public School Board met.

Mr. Cleburne did not appear as usual instructor at the regular meeting of the Franchise Public School Board.

Moved by Mr. Bulmer and seconded by J. J. Eversall several accounts at hand were to be paid by cheque.

The meeting adjourned following a business discussion.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM RICHMOND McLEWAIN

Another of Hamilton county's pioneers passed to the Great Beyond, on Friday, October 18, 1940, the person of William Richmond McLeWain. The deceased was in his 70th year and had been in poor health for some time. He was born in Hamilton township, January 18, 1870, where he spent his lifetime on the old homestead.

He was a life-long member of the Orange Order and was Orlan Lodge's oldest member. His wife predeceased him two and a half years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss eight children, four sons and four daughters. The beautiful floral arrangements shown the services in which he was held. The pallbearers were his four sons and two sons-in-law.

The funeral took place from St. John's Church, Orlan, Rev. J. Richards conducted the service. Interment took place in Orlan cemetery.

Members present at the meeting were: J. E. Miller, R. Bulmer, W. A. Wain, B. Brando and C. R. McLean.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved. Moved by R. Bulmer and seconded by J. J. Eversall several accounts at hand were to be paid by cheque.

The meeting adjourned following a business discussion.

Mrs. Elmer Beggs Hostess To W.A.

Cameron (P.M.) — The regular monthly meeting of the St. George's Anglican W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Elmer Beggs, with the president, Mrs. Royce Meyer, in the chair.

The roll call was answered with a series of scripture by each member and the minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Elmer Beggs.

Several items of business were discussed. Plans for a quilting to be held the following week at the home of Mrs. Royce Meyer were made.

The special speaker for the day was Mrs. C. M. McLean of Millbrook, Ontario, who gave an interesting talk. This related many of the experiences of Rev. Mr. McLean while overseas during the war.

She told the story of Liverpool Cathedral, one of the largest Anglican Cathedrals in the world and the interesting facts concerning its beautiful memorial windows.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Royce Meyer, and a social time was spent over the tea cups.

CANADA'S FIRST BANK BUILDING

Taken from an old hand-coloured engraving, the winter scene is a view of the bank building in 1817, thirteen years after the bank of Montreal's founding. The building is the first bank building in Canada. It was built on the site of the first bank building in Canada. It was built on the site of the first bank building in Canada.

The bank contributed vitally to many phases of home-front activity in both world wars. In peace as well as war, the strength, progress and high degree of living of the young country can be attributed in a unique degree to the policies of its oldest bank. And the B of M has grown with the country.

The bank began with a capital of $250,000 and a staff of seven. At the present time its capital and reserves amount to $100,000,000. Its resources are close to the two-billion mark, and its staff numbers more than 10,000.

Lottery By Mail; Post Office Jumps In

(OTTAWA UNITED PRESS)

Canada's Deputy Postmaster General, Walter Turnbull, is in a delicate campaign to end purchase of lottery tickets through the mails, says that about thirty percent have been placed on the post office's banned list. And warning letters have been sent to some ten thousand other Canadians.

While the purchase or handling of lottery tickets is in itself illegal, it is pointed out that persons dealing with revenues collected are liable to prosecution under the foreign exchange control act for sending currency out of Canada illegally.

In the case of the thirty people who have been denied postal service, Turnbull says they were given adequate warning that they were breaching the law.

And the warnings sent to the thousands other Canadians also will result in a mailing ban if they purchase through the mails.

Figs Grown In Ontario Yield Well

Brantford, Nov. 6 (UPI)—Horticulturists will tell you that figs are foreign to Ontario's climate, but Alger Brown, who farms near Brantford will tell you differently.

Brown has grown a fig tree that has astonished the experts. It is nearly seven feet high and this year has given a large crop.

Brown's other accomplishments include lemons and not trees which bear fruit.

Japanese Toys Back On Mkt.

The trade mark "made in Japan" is back to bark on the American market, this year for the first time since Pearl Harbor. Customs officials said that toys had begun to be sold in Japan, and the U.S. toy industry is celebrating Christmas with a new spirit.

Welsh Fishers Face Ban

Carrying their catches (light boats used for fishing) these two Welshmen discuss a new bylaw that threatens their 2,000 year-old activity. Under the new law a license to fish on the Trent River would mean the end of their activity. Thus, the baiting that was valued by Welshmen is faced with extinction. The council men will take their case to the Town Council, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, to preserve their right to fish for salmon in the Trent river.

Although it is located thousands of miles from the sea, the Island of Montreal probably houses more lighthouses per square mile than any other territory of similar area in Canada. There are six Department of Transport lighthouses in Montreal handling 267 lights and 1,100 buoys and other aids to navigation. Their pay is $238 per year. For that amount they make the best of their towers each night musing the lights, some of which are generated by electricity others by oil. The latter have one of the most intense light sources when the power might fail leaving ships without light in the darkness of a dark river channel. Above (left) is shown the shore light at Longue Point. It has a sister much higher and slimmer. The lighthouse keeper at Longue Point prepares to go aloft as the hour of sunrise returns. He makes a second climb two hours after sunrise. Looking more like an historical monument, the "Petreswitzer" front light is situated at a dangerous curve in the river to serve as a warning guide for sailors.

Hydro Blackouts Not Wanted Ontario Commission Head Says

Toronto, Nov. 6 (UPI)—R.L. Egan, General Manager and chief engineer for the Ontario Hydro Commission, says that "the last thing Ontario wants to see is a blackout."

Egan was commenting on Toronto Mayor Robert Saunders' offer yesterday that if the Commission wished it the city would shut off power in various sections of the city to help conserve electric power.

M.J. McFerry, Director of Hydro's Consumer Service, says "blackout not sections would be the last thing Hydro would demand." He said it would "have the same effect that a power failure would have and no one wants that."

McFerry says that "banning certain type of use not essential to business and living would be more likely."

He says "we would rather see restrictions on window and ornamental lighting rather than a complete blackout. He says the Commission's immediate objective is a ten per cent reduction in use of Hydro's 725-thousand domestic and rural customers."

Power Cuts In Toronto Are Likely

Toronto's Mayor—Robert Saunders—says that Toronto may have to shut off power in certain sections of the city at specified times of the week.

Saunders told a special street lighting committee that if Toronto gets orders from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, power rationing would go into effect.

The mayor said that the Toronto Hydro could not cut off power itself as industrial and commercial concerns, because of contracts with them. But he said "we might have to do this if the Ontario Hydro orders us to do so" (UPI).

Food Parcels For Overseas Poorly Packed

Postmaster General Ernest Bennett says there's a serious condition in Britain at the moment as a result of many Canadians failing to pack their food parcels properly sent to Britain.

Bennett says it's a situation calling for immediate remedy through the fullest public cooperation. The public must cooperate and pack their parcels properly, he says, if untold thousands in Britain aren't to be badly disappointed.

As things are now, says the Postmaster General, many parcels have been received in Britain in badly damaged condition. They're had to be reconditioned and even most of the original contents have either been damaged or are missing. (UPI)

Homes Escape Lightly Under Ration Scheme

Under the regulations the use of electricity for space heating is prohibited, and is considered for penalizing for excessive use. The rationing of electricity for heating of homes is also prohibited, as is the rationing of electricity for heating of premises after business hours, unless it is being done for business.

However, an exception will be made for homes and other business places requiring lights for protection.

The use of electricity for food-lighting of parking lots, used car lots, service stations, outdoor restaurants, and the lighting of marquees, catwalks and billboards is restricted to the maximum amount deemed necessary in the interests of public safety.

In announcing the modified rationing, W. Ross Birtle, a member of the Ontario Electric Power Commission, emphasized that the use of electricity for domestic purposes and in hospitals is not affected by the modified rationing order.

Other uses of electricity not affected by the rationing order are: lighting of airports, lighting for police and fire service and lighting for hospitals. The rationing order also applies to the direction signs and signs designating the use of electricity in hospitals.

Commissioner Birtle told newspapermen that the Power Commission has made drastic efforts to put the voluntary conservation scheme into effect. "However," he said, "we feel these restrictions are necessary in order to get the full effect from the voluntary effort."

Birtle said that violations of the rationing regulations will be prosecuted under the Public Utilities Act. Convictions carry a maximum fine of $50 and 60 days in jail.

Provision to give the Ontario Electric Power Commission the authority to allocate and distribute electric power in emergency situations was added in the amendments to the Utilities Act.

Birtle said "We hope to have around 200,000 kilowatts of power by the modified rationing scheme."

"In addition," he said, "we expect to have another 50,000 kilowatts by the voluntary conservation scheme."

Birtle said that he would like to emphasize that the Commission still has to get a great deal of co-operation from industrial users.

"However," he said, "most of the industrial users are co-operating with us at all times."

Quarried to save how the regulations will be enforced. Birtle said that the law is to keep the rationing scheme in force until the end of April.

New Charge Is Brought Against Lee

Ontario Provincial Police have laid another charge against William Lee, the 39-year-old, who was charged with "obstructing a police officer while acting as a peace officer."

Proceedings on the charge to which Lee was charged will be held on Monday at 10 a.m. in the court of Judge J. H. Macdonald.

The last charge arises out of an incident last Oct. 4, when Police Constable Joseph A. Phillips, R.C.M., on a technicality. The defence had argued that Constable Phillips had not informed the accused he was arresting him. On this point the court accepted the prosecution's case.

Lee was charged with obstructing a police officer making an arrest. Phillips was dismissed in police court by Judge J. H. Macdonald.

Newspaper Birth "Quite Possible"

Bishop Warns Drew Interest Is Needed

Toronto, Nov. 8.—(UPI)—A warning came from Toronto last night that if Toronto doesn't take an interest in Northern Ontario "it is quite possible there may be a new province up there."

The warning came from Right Reverend J.B. Ross, Bishop of the Diocese of Huron, who was addressing the St. George's Society in Toronto.

"I said the Bishop—"It is quite possible there may be a new province up there if people here don't show any interest."

He said—"The people living up there don't own the gold; they are ordinary people in trades to do with the economy of man and they are going to demand that they control the land where they work."

Bishop Ross went on—"There would be much more to be gained for Canada than for its youth and our wealth lost to Northern Ontario."

Kills Wolf With Truck And Rifle

Wolf-hobbing of Bobcaygeon has devised a handy method of knocking off wolves which cross his path.

... He runs them first with his truck and then with the rifle. At least that's the way he put himself in line for a wolf bounty recently.

Driving along the Nogies Creek road near the fountain a wolf suddenly darted out in front of his truck. Stopping on the gas pedal, the animal, stopped his truck and jumped out to finish the job off with his rifle. He has applied for the bounty on the wolf.

Germans Flooded With Propaganda By Russia

Berlin was flooded last Monday on the fifth anniversary of the Russian revolution.

The powerful propaganda resources of German Communists were called up to give the German people a vivid picture of the Russian revolution.

Several newspaper editors were seized by the Soviet authorities to allow for full coverage of the celebration. Powerful transmitters of the Soviet-controlled radio in Berlin maintained a constant barrage about Soviet foreign policy and achievements in Soviet Union, Agriculture Industry and Human Welfare.

Meanwhile the American press of propaganda war in Germany has been opened by the distribution of 30,000 copies of a white paper recently published by a New York newspaper and entitled "Behind the Iron Curtain." The newspaper editor is being registered as part of the American Military Government's program to counteract the Communist propaganda campaign.

-Editorial- Others Say-

A MAN'S CASTLE

There are the days when the housing situation in the Dominion is all across Canada and there's plenty of discussion going on about the way to overcome the shortage of accommodation. The Ottawa Times-Gazette and the Owen Sound Sun-Times have editorialized on the pioneer spirit which has moved many housewives to solve their own problem by building their own home.

Two important points are brought out in the editorial commentaries of these papers: (a) that self-reliance is the first principle of the housewife; (b) that the housewife is not alone in her struggle.

There is no doubt that the housewife is not alone in her struggle. She is surrounded by a host of other people who are also struggling to find a way out of the housing problem. The housewife is not alone in her struggle. She is surrounded by a host of other people who are also struggling to find a way out of the housing problem.

KEEPING YOUR VISION CORRECTED

Accident insurance companies and people, inventing motor accidents on the highway, state that alcohol is responsible for the majority of accidents. Not that drivers are always intoxicated, but because they are so stimulated that they take the risk and drive more skilfully than they really can.

While alcohol is responsible for the majority of accidents, the alcohol does that poor eyesight-not having faulty vision detected and corrected-is responsible for it. It is not a bad eye, but a bad eye.

Ottawa, Nov. 12 (UPI)—The Toronto Argonauts held a three-point lead over the Ottawa Roughriders in the last four plays of the first half of the 3rd Toronto win Tuesday over the Roughriders in Ottawa.

The Argos should have won by more, as the Ottawa Club failed to generate pass the Toronto victory yard line. The clinic was played in a sea of mud before ten thousand rain soaked viewers in the stands.

The second game of the home and home, local points to count series will be played in Toronto Saturday.

Chicago Cabbage
Calls Conacher

Chicago, Nov. 12 (UPI)—Roy Conacher, leading scorer for the Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League with Chicago, has signed to play with the New York Black Hawks this year.

Conacher was traded to New York before the season began, but he refused to report, and told he was through with hockey. Later, Tolson was given permission by the NHL to negotiate with Conacher.

Conacher's Montreal Millionaire said "I'll cost an $25,000 to get Conacher, it wasn't hard to get Roy. I offered him no much money."

THIS IS IT
Faced with the task of presenting the Lindsay Recreation Centre by December 31st, the city is now even being backed by the four-team team has been formed. The Detroit "Two Hockey League will collect to tomorrow p.m. at the Detroit Center at the Detroit Center. The "hockey" enthusiasts to look over the situation for the first time. To date not much has been accomplished—although two and possibly three teams are on the horizon. Big task of the league will be to decide whether OHA players will be eligible to join either make way for those more experienced players who get plenty of ice time (which didn't work out last year)—or pay the league on a recreation set-up which means the average player who gets a kick out of playing the game will make up the team.

ROUND AND ABOUT
PETERBORO JRL will no doubt be back in OHA. "JRL" completed its first season in OHA. There is some talk of a grouping with Belleville, Lindsay, Port Hope and Ottawa. ARCHIE WEBB will again coach the OTOFFS. ALBERT COLLINS took Ottawa 14 Saturday but have definitely the semi-finals to PCHS which means Ben. Collins will play his second straight COUSA final.

MORE GOLFERS has Queens, Kingston, Belleville, Ottawa and Peterborough Peter and Legion looking up on the way. The group which gives the best face as the brand of hockey they will start this winter with the very players here. ARN DUGAN who started this year with St. Catharines of the "A" top a back in Peterborough and will line-up with OTOFF.

AMTALIA OHA meeting is in Toronto on Dec 6th.

Unorthodox Ezra Pound

He Avoided Treason Trial by Pleading Insane;
Now He Plays Host To American Intellectuals

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, (U.S.A.) — Ezra Loomis Pound, the bearded, "unconformist" American poet who temporarily beat a treason trial by pleading insanity, is playing host these days to scores of America's and other intellectuals.

They come from all over the country to visit Pound in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he is quietly established in a private room with a fine view of the U.S. Capitol and a typewriter on which, a hospital official said, he is typing out free-verse. Pound agreed that his life is comfortable, but wouldn't admit he is doing any writing.

"It would be difficult to turn out good verse in a nut house," he said.
Pound is still under indictment as a traitor for alleged broadcasting activities from 1942 during the war.
He was confined to St. Elizabeth's after being declared insane by a Federal grand jury and the Department of Justice attorney who handled his case says he can stay there until either Pound or hospital officials ask for another sanity trial. If he is then declared sane a jury will face the treason trial.

A hospital official said there is no limit on the number of visitors Pound can have, and described his crafter as noted professor and intellectual, although he would mention no names. "There was no secrecy, however, about a 'nutty' named Dorothy Shakespeare, an English writer whose real name is Mrs. Pound. She lives a few blocks from the hospital and visits her husband daily. Recently, according to the Department of Justice, she was enough to have Pound transferred to a private institution, but the hospital turned her down.

Although he is a "lock-up" patient, Pound goes outside on good days. A hospital official said he has more privileges than the other patients, whom he leaves sitting a comfortable chair with his legs
stretched out in the same direction, feet propped up on another chair or on the table. He looked healthy, fat, and in good spirits.
Other than meditation, poetry, and intellectual talk, Pound said he likes to keep his room tidy, write.

He said:

fresh, but very dull," said Pound,
"but that doesn't mean I'm complaining. On the whole, it's very comfortable and much better than the nutty pit." A term he has borrowed from current literature for the ward in which he was placed when he entered St. Elizabeth's in December, 1942.

Although most of the other patients in the corridor where Pound is confined were uniformed, he wore a shabby lived jacket with more privileges than the other patients, whom he leaves sitting a comfortable chair with his legs
stretched out in the same direction, feet propped up on another chair or on the table. He looked healthy, fat, and in good spirits.
Other than meditation, poetry, and intellectual talk, Pound said he likes to keep his room tidy, write.

He said:

"The media here are probably ways putting my name in the newspapers. And I think I have a line sent against one of them because he linked my name with Henry Wallace.

Wallace is just a self-admitted dummy from the Midwest who always believes the last man he beated is."

About the treason charge against him, Pound said "anybody who really knows my work and reads the things I have written believes that I have done no wrong."

Of his plans for the future, "I'm waiting to get more facts. And how can you deal intelligently with officials who will turn loose men like Lucky Luciano who is now regaining the Mafia in Italy?" he says.

Pound was born in Hallow, Idaho, attended Hamilton College, and the University of Pennsylvania where he received a Master of Arts degree in 1907. He left the U.S. in 1911 for England. He stayed away from the U.S. constantly, except for a brief visit in 1927, until his forced return after the war.

After the first World War Pound's unorthodox views were popular among some groups in the U.S. and England for a time. Several of his books were published and he wrote essays on almost any subject in addition to writing poetry.

After living four years in Paris,
Pound settled permanently in Italy in 1928. Then, according to the Department of Justice:

"Pound pronounced a warm admission for and personal acquaintance with Mussolini and other fascist officials and greeted many of his American acquaintances with the fascist salute."

The indictment charges that Pound's wartime broadcasts from Italy followed the familiar Axis propaganda line: that international Jewry was the root of the world's difficulties, that the U.S. was a creation of Great Britain and that the basic way of life was the hope of the world.

The attorney who handled the case for the U.S. says that the more Pound is tried, the more difficult it will be to convict him. He says the witness who worked with Pound on the Italian broadcasts in Italy probably will have disappeared in a couple of years.

Giant Tractors, Hungry Men, Seek Oil for Navy Under Arctic Icecap

Point Barrow beach. Three weeks is needed for a year.

By JACK NOLPER
NRA Staff Correspondent
Point Barrow, Alaska, (NRA).—Giant "rats"—some of the largest tractors ever built—are crawling slowly across the frozen ground here this winter, heading loads of precious supplies.

On them, and on the men who set up to five men a day to maintain their strength in the 40 to 60 below zero weather, is the quest with which the Navy awaits its oil reserves under the Arctic icecap.

The Navy has until the summer of 1939 to find for Congress the answer to these questions.

In three worthwhile oil in Navy Petroleum Reserve No. 4, as this vastland is officially known, and is it worth commercial development?

Would it pay to drill the well and build the necessary pipeline for oil production in the American Arctic?

Answering the first question first is the immediate job of Arctic Contractors, a combination of two civilian firms hired by the Navy to handle its oil exploration. Big Arctic Contractors already has completed a pipeline from the Arctic plateau through Anaktuvuk Pass, the Eskimo mountains of the Brooks Range across the lake-pocked plains and into Fairbanks.

Bartlett W. Gillette, manager of the contractors, is reluctant to discuss the pipeline.

"We are only up here to find out if there is oil. If there is enough oil to justify construction of a pipeline, we will come back in the summer of 1939 to drill the well and build the necessary pipeline for oil production in the American Arctic."

Some say there is. Shortly after the turn of the century, explorers confirmed "balmy" stories of oil seeps near Cape Wankarem. In 1922, several California oil companies made a preliminary survey of the Point Barrow area.

Then President Harding, on advice of the Navy Bureau of Engineering, ordered the Alaska Co. Reserve, making commercial exploitation of any oil that may be below the ice.

During the war, the problem of getting Alaska oil fuel to the Seabees, whose Congress directed the Navy to retain control but to hire civilians to do the work.

Commander P. W. Roberts is the naval resident officer in charge.

He and Gillette have to plan at least a year in advance to keep the work running smoothly. "Transporters that bring food and other supplies to Point Barrow have only three weeks during the entire year when they can unload this far north.

There are no dock facilities here. The five ships that came up from California last July used double beach, and unloaded 24 hours a day into landing barges and snow. By the middle of August the ships were gone, the barges were piled high with disintegrated cargo and the ice was beginning to reform in the water off the Point.

At other times of the year emergency supplies come in by plane. But supply officers depend on the once-yearly arrival of the ships to fill the bulk of their needs with the help of the land-lanes and cold.

The men are certain they will hit pay oil soon. Samples from one well seem to confirm their optimism. While the Navy is keeping details of the operation secret, quality of the crude probably is promising high and there is indication that oil is being found at unusually shallow levels.

Every scientific instrument that can spot the search for oil is being utilized. But there are 31,000 miles of tundra and ice in the area.

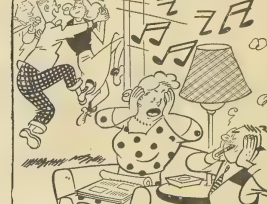

In summer, a tracked peat-moisture machine laid a weed to use to cover the tundra. The weed won't burn down in the soft ground. In winter when the tundra is frozen, solid, disintegrates and sub-trains work best. This year, 18 D-8 tractors hauled 74 machine loads over a 100-mile round-trip without an accident.

Since Arctic Contractors took over, Point Barrow has grown into a full town community. There are more than 30 Quonset huts here, a mess hall, administration buildings, storehouse, machine shop and air strip. There is even a garbage collector.

In winter, he hauls his refuse by tractor out over the frozen ground to Arctic and waits for the summer thaw to dump it into the water for him.

Denver's 'One-Man Opera'

Msgr. Bosetti Ex-Mountain Climber and Founder of Boys' Camp, Makes His Dreams Materialize

By MARY FLYNN
NRA Staff Correspondent

DENVER, Colo. Nov. 6 (NRA).—Denver's "One-Man Opera" whose parental wishes have a way of materializing is going to see his latest dream come true.

With the summer opera season over and youthful campers back in school, Msgr. Joseph Bosetti, who is also a boy's camp founder, is looking forward to the erection of a huge statue of Christ on a rocky outcropping at the entrance to St. Malo camp, beside the South St. Vrain highway in Colorado's Rocky Mountain National Park.

While on a national tour 20 years ago, the Roman Catholic priest spotted that site at the foot of Mt. Meeker where St. Malo's camp, which he founded, now stands. A fiery meteor had attracted him to the place, campers still search the mountain for the meteor's remains.

Msgr. Bosetti's first wish was that that night as he stood on the natural rock formation which now is the foundation of the 600-000 St. Malo Chapel.

"I felt desperately in love with the place," he recalls, "never had any peace thereafter until I found ways to make the organization of a boy's camp."

Born in Milan, Italy, Msgr. Bosetti was a mountain climber before he was 20. In his youth he climbed Mt. Matterhorn in 24 hours a feat he later discussed with the late Pope Pius XI, who also climbed the peak. He studied music in Rome and married Marie Malton, organist of St. Peter's and was ordained to the priesthood in Switzerland in 1897. Lombard architecture influenced the camp chapel. Built of native granite, it is an outstanding example of attraction along the St. Vrain.

The camp grew out of mountain trips arranged by the vigorous priest for boys of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Denver, where he had been assistant pastor. The first building of St. Malo's was donated 28 years ago by Mr. Moffet, wealthy Denver lumberman.

The modern camp accommodates 150 boys of all faiths who come from every part of the United States and neighboring countries. The weekly fee for each boy is only $1. Five angels, trained by Msgr. Bosetti and as many as 100 angels, are staffing the camp.

Msgr. Bosetti founded the Denver Grand Opera Co. in 1930. He has continued as producer and director since. Proceeds go to Catholic charities. St. Malo's being one of the beneficiaries.

The energetic priest directs the orchestra, dramatizes and sings himself in addition to handling administrative business. This summer's four-night opera, staged at Denver's main auditorium, was highly successful in the tradition of the past.

Opera leads are sung by stars of the Metropolitan and other outstanding artists, but the bulk of the cast is local talent, including members of the 100-voice men's and boys' choir of the Denver Cathedral which Msgr. Bosetti regularly directs. Francesco Valentini, of Metropolitan fame, is a former member of that choir.

In his role as camp director, Msgr. Bosetti's costume usually consists of a colored sport shirt, blue slacks and sneakers. A white dangle from a white cord around his neck. He always carries a slipper notebook "for 28 reasons"—representing just 28 reasons for many activities.

The Atom Is Building a Boom Town In Ohio's Once-Sleepy Miamisburg

What's making Miamisburg grow begins at this guarded main gate of the Atomic Energy Commission's new plant. Although its products will be one of the best-guarded plants in the U.S.

By NEA Service
Miamisburg, O. (NEA)—The Atomic Energy Commission is making a boom town out of a city of 100.

Already the population has jumped to nearly 7,000. Men and machines are pouring away at the one-quiet hills outside of town. A $400,000 plant for atomic energy research and a $10,000,000 power plant to supply it.

Aggravate Miamisburg residents are already looking for other new industries they can enter into to the town even that greater power will be available. Others are not to happen.

"This town used to be serene. Now look at it. It's a boom town. Miamisburg is not geared to such activity."

"And atomic research—can you call the atomic bomb progress? Actually the plant here, operated by Monsanto Chemical Co. for the Atomic Energy Commission, will be concerned primarily with research uses of the atom. Scientists hope to develop hydrogen, as well as new fuels for medicine, biology, agriculture and industry."

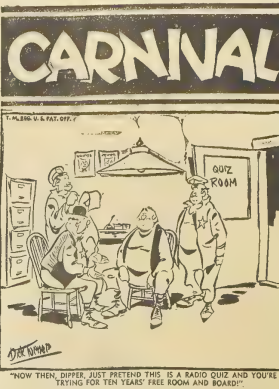

Many commutes from Cincinnati still enter Ohio town. To ease the situation in Miamisburg itself, the AEC has hired 250 government-owned trailers from Oak Ridge, Tenn., and has established a regular trailer city outside of town.

The influx of children overcrowded schools until Kenneth A. Disher, AEC area manager, secured a $50,000 grant from Washington to build several temporary additions to the grade school.

Things may quiet down a little after construction of the plants is completed. But to run them, a total of at least 375 employees will be required. With their families, they will permanently increase the population here.

As within barrier protects Miamisburg's atomic activity from prying eyes. Beyond the wall over which these steps lead, much of the plant is being built underground.

And if other industries follow, Miamisburg will have to forget it ever was a quiet, sleepy little town, in the days before the Atomic Age.

"NOW THEN, DIFFER JUST PRETEND THIS IS A RADIO GUY AND YOU'RE TALKING FOR TEN YEARS' FREE ROOM AND BOARD!"

"DO YOU MIND?"

"WHY DIDN'T YOU SAY SOME OF THE WOMEN WERE GOING FORMAL? I'D HAVE WORN MY TUXEDO!"

"OH, DEAR! I DO THIS SO OFTEN! WON'DN'T IT BE EASIER AND CHEAPER IF YOU JUST GAVE ME A SEASON TICKET?"

Nebraska Farmer Is a Chinese General In UNRRA Battle of the Rice Fields

By NEA Foreign Service
Shanghai, N.Y. (NEA)—An American farmer, who learned to fight bugs in Nebraska, and a Norwegian agricultural expert are trying to save from two to five hundred thousand tons of rice this year for China's hungry millions.

For a year now Horace O. Truitt, of Paxton, Neb., and Frederick S. Gubrunsen of Oslo have had China's war against a tiny worm. To bigger than a cut-worm, which every season does enormous damage to the fertile rice fields of Kiangsu province.

On the average three rice-bugs destroy 100,000 tons of rice a year. But every seventh year they eat especially bad, and do from two to five times their average damage. This is the seventh year.

The horror is small, and he does not live long. But he is hard to fight because he crawls inside the rice plants where the insecticides can not reach him. When UNRRA agricultural rehabilitation experts tried to help Chinese farmers return their war-poised farmlands to top production, their first problem was to get at the borer.

Two or three weeks after the first rice planting, moths come out of the stubble of last year's crop and lay eggs on the leaves of the new seedlings. When these eggs hatch there is a brief interval before they can eat their way inside the rice plants. For that short time they can be reached with insecticides.

As the UNRRA team learned DDT powder in the UNRRA-sponsored National Pesticides Manufacturing plant here. They persuaded Kiangsu farmers to leave narrow rows unplanted, through which men armed with spray guns could walk to spray the young plants and kill newly hatched larvae.

But that was not enough. They could not eat them all, and they knew that those that escaped would be back again next year, breeding again.

They spent last winter measuring farmers to dispose of rice old rice straw, which always had been saved, to get rid of larvae hiding in its stems. Provincial legislation is now pending to require that this straw be destroyed after each harvest.

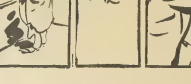

The program's success can not be told until all of Kiangsu's three rice years have been harvested this year. But if the borer course can be held down in the dangerous seventh year, UNRRA and local crops are convinced that, within a few seasons, the borer can be destroyed entirely.

As the UNRRA-equipped laboratory in Shanghai, Chinese chemists seek new weapons to fight the rice borer.

Crutches Haven't Clipped His Wings

ARTHURIS KEPT HIM FROM BIKES AND GAMES, BUT NOT FROM FLYING

By NEA Service

—Jack Baum never could ride a bike with the other boys in the neighborhood.

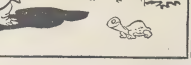

He couldn't ever roller skate, or play ball, or slumny up trees with them, either, because arthritis had made him a cripple since kindergarten days.

But Jack has something on the mind now. At 20, he has his small-plane pilot's license. The arthritis left him with ill-effects after long years of waiting other boys from the elastics he was strapped against because his parents didn't want him to drive a car, although many of his high school classmates had their own airplanes. So after school, Jack got a part-time job at the Three Rivers airport. Then he talked Harry Blumenshank, a former Army pilot, into giving him lessons. He was able to pass his pilot's examination after eight hours of instruction, and then got his flying license.

His only trouble now is getting in and out of the plane, but once he's at the controls he can park his engine smoothly into the wind, up and go where others can't go by blue or yellow.

Jack thinks there's a chance he may have a career in the air, too. Right now he's negotiating with a big manufacturer of small planes for a job as goodwill ambassador and field sales representative and he flies in their plants to convince them.

JACK BAUM: Older boys drive jalopies; he had to settle for a plane. His only trouble is getting in and out of the cockpit.

Germany Is The Key-- Communism Is The Foe

Begin 85th Year

(BRITISH UNITED PRESS)—The United States Congress has heard a warning that if the U.S. knows what is good for it, it will provide enough aid to Germany to make it a Communist ally.

This warning comes from the Republican representative from Illinois, Forrest Dillman, and Dillman says Runtz is preparing for war and is turning out tanks and planes at what he called an alarming rate. He said that as-called cold war between Russia and the United States can easily become a hot war.

The Republican says Germany is the key, and he says if the United States abandons Europe--and particularly Germany--Communism will take over.

Dillman also believes Communist Russia will win within four years.

Salient Points Of Canada's Austerity Scheme

British United Press

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott went to the nation Monday night with a scheme of austerity for Canadians to conserve the nation's fast-disappearing supply of dollars.

In an effort to "correct Canada's foreign exchange position," the Government has put a total ban on the import of many "luxury and non-essential" manufactured products, with effect from midnight last night.

Here then are the measures announced by the finance minister:

Firstly there is to be an immediate total ban placed on the import of cosmetics, jewelry, radio receivers, electrical appliances, washing machines, furniture, candy, novelties, etc.

Secondly, the completion of negotiations for a $500-Million Dollar loan from the U. S. Export-Import Bank.

Thirdly, Canadians on pleasure trips to the U.S. will be allowed to take only 150 dollars in American currency.

Fourthly, the proposed subsidy of seven dollars per ton of wheat and other agricultural products.

Fifthly, "quota" restrictions on imports of furs, textiles, jewelry and leather goods, clock watches, game, sports, sporting goods, etc.

And lastly, an excise tax of 25 per cent on sporting goods of all kinds, including golf clubs, firearms, motorcycles, cameras, radios, etc.

Announcing his austerity program, Abbott said that it would be a "hard" blow to many, and he added that it is regrettable that the government had to resort to such measures.

But he said, to adopt a lesser program would be to risk a further loss of dollars, which would necessitate far more drastic restrictions.

The finance minister said the government intends to get rid of its restrictions as soon as circumstances permit.

Abbott went on to give a picture of the nation's reserve gold. He said, "we came out of the war with a reserve of gold and silver dollars—about one and one-half billion dollars." "Last year," he said, "we were down to slightly over 600-million dollars."

31 People Perish In Department Store Fire

CHICAGO, Nov. 18, (Nov. 18, (UP))—A fire which destroyed the largest and most exclusive Department Store in Chicago, New York, today has claimed at least 31 lives.

Police say they have recovered 31 bodies from the charred ruins of the 10-story building. The blaze started at the height of the afternoon rush hour and flames enveloped the whole structure within fifteen minutes.

Authorities say the fire apparently started in the kitchen of the store's haberdasherie department.

And they added that the fire spread rapidly through the store's many departments.

Canada Slashes Duties; Predict Cheaper Living

Government officials predict

Monday that the cost of living would go down as a result of the new trade agreements announced in Ottawa yesterday. But that was before Finance Minister Douglas Abbott announced his emergency measures for saving the nation's supply of dollars.

Agreements, Canada has agreed to slash many of her duties on the importation of food, textiles, coal, wool, steel, tobacco, liquor, and many other manufactured items.

And likewise, comparable reductions are being made by Canada's overseas countries, principally the United States.

Officials are predicting that the cost of living will be reduced as a result of the new trade agreements.

They also predict that the cost of living will be reduced as a result of the new trade agreements.

Salient Points Of Canada's Austerity Scheme

British United Press

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott went to the nation Monday night with a scheme of austerity for Canadians to conserve the nation's fast-disappearing supply of dollars.

In an effort to "correct Canada's foreign exchange position," the Government has put a total ban on the import of many "luxury and non-essential" manufactured products, with effect from midnight last night.

Here then are the measures announced by the finance minister:

Firstly there is to be an immediate total ban placed on the import of cosmetics, jewelry, radio receivers, electrical appliances, washing machines, furniture, candy, novelties, etc.

Secondly, the completion of negotiations for a $500-Million Dollar loan from the U. S. Export-Import Bank.

Thirdly, Canadians on pleasure trips to the U.S. will be allowed to take only 150 dollars in American currency.

Fourthly, the proposed subsidy of seven dollars per ton of wheat and other agricultural products.

Fifthly, "quota" restrictions on imports of furs, textiles, jewelry and leather goods, clock watches, game, sports, sporting goods, etc.

And lastly, an excise tax of 25 per cent on sporting goods of all kinds, including golf clubs, firearms, motorcycles, cameras, radios, etc.

Temple Building Assessment Lowered; System Condemned

What prompted to be one of the shortest sittings of a Court of Revision in Lindsay in recent years at the Court Wednesday night turned out to be fairly lengthy. The Court began down when it came to consider the Appeal of Dr. W. W. Blackwell of the grounds that the assessment of the Temple Building was too high. The building was assessed at $402.28 and after inspection the Court reduced it to $373.75. Decision to reduce the assessment was based on the fact that much of the new addition to the building was still in process of being completed whereas it had been assessed on the basis of the finished product.

There were eight other appeals registered but one withdrew previous to the Court sitting. Action was taken on the appeal of Mrs. Burpee appealed on the grounds that there was an error in the business assessment and the Court confirmed the assessment as being made without error.

Mrs. Wm. Newman came with reduced from $18.00 to $14.00. A. J. Lynch appealed on the grounds that the should be assessed as a separate shopkeeper at $10.00. Mr. K. H. W. and at his daughter's appeal and his appeal was reduced to $10.00. Mr. Porter had his assessment confirmed as did Elliott. Stephen's appeal was reduced to $10.00 on the grounds that his assessment had not been clearly adjusted by him.

Bruce McArthur of the McArthur family appealed on the grounds that he was assessed on an error in business assessment and had the valuation of his business premises cut from $11.00 to $5.00. Part of his business estimate was being used for domestic purposes and therefore not taxable as part of the business.

As L. T. Houston went on to present as favoring a more scientific basis of assessment for Lindsay, the Court continued the present system as being inadequate. His opinions were voiced during the lengthy investigation made by Dr. Blackwell's appeal. His conclusions were agreed by the other members of the Court—Ad. Pitts, Kinsborough, Nesbitt and Baker.

THE GOOD LIFE

By Anna K. Wilson

"O-M, Mrs. Ryan always at the school in early afternoon; there was my brother. A Christmas card was sent to the school. It was a pleasure to help the good people. I might as well read the paper as he sits but today the letter was very kind. He was between him and the morning news."

For the party, gathering for Dr. Channing, Matt was sure he had found the good life. It was a pleasure to talk with Old Donald about the future. He was sure he had found the good life. It was a pleasure to talk with Old Donald about the future.

It was going on to the end of the week, when Matt was sure he had found the good life. It was a pleasure to talk with Old Donald about the future. He was sure he had found the good life. It was a pleasure to talk with Old Donald about the future.

"Come into my office, Matt," he said loudly and not unkindly, "let's have a look at it." "Now, back in the city there was something pleasant about his letter. It was a pleasure to talk with Old Donald about the future. He was sure he had found the good life. It was a pleasure to talk with Old Donald about the future."

Cameo copy from Jim Kelly of the American Hockey League. James states that a majority of the fans were indicated that they are not quite familiar with the new rule the teams in regard to the completion of points at the red center line. Thing that will bowen interest "for your information" my past this on—

"If a player in the Stratal Zone by the puck passed from the Montreal Zone he shall be eligible to be the completion of the puck anywhere in the Stratal Zone except where the "freeing the Puck" rule applies. All passes originating in the De-limited Zone must be legally completed at the center Red Line. The position of the player's skates and his stick shall be the determining factor in all instances in determining an "offside". A player is offside when both skates are completely over the outer edge of the centerline either line or blue line involved in the play."

WRESTLING
An R.C.A.P. hockey data bulletin lists 23 prospects for Ontario, and his state shall be the determining factor in all instances in determining an "offside". A player is offside when both skates are completely over the outer edge of the centerline either line or blue line involved in the play."

Toronto, Nov. 18 (UPI)—The flashed running ball back of the University of Western

Ontario Mustangs—Bob McFarlane led the individual scoring honors in the Intercollegiate football this year by a wide mar-margin.

McFarlane topped the honors for the second year in a row marked up sixty points. His classmate was his brother Don, of Western who garnered 26 points.

McFarlane made something which was useful, such as school, recreational centers, hospitals, etc.

Why Puerto Ricans Leave Home Conditions on Island Are Blot To U.S. Flag Welfare Is Race Between Industry And Birth Rate

By ALAN KELLES

SAN JUAN, P. R. (REDA)—No mainland can visit Puerto Rico without being amazed and shocked that the American flag flies over it. Most of the 3,500,000 American citizens on the island never heard of the economic and social vicissitudes for which our flag stands-at home.

Hundreds of thousands of Puerto Ricans are fleeing to New York because it is literally and figuratively the island to provide them with even a subsistence-level living.

Any Puerto Rican who has gone beyond the island grade will explain that the island's welfare depends on a race between industrialization and the birth rate. Thus far the birth rate has won, hands down.

Any Puerto Rican who has gone beyond the island grade will explain that the island's welfare depends on a race between industrialization and the birth rate. Thus far the birth rate has won, hands down.

More than 30,000 of the island's 1,000,000 people are given over to sugar, whose planting and harvesting gives only a few months work a year and provides the average worker with no more than $500 to $1000 of annual income. Sugar food and all other imports of foreign origin are sold at a profit in the States, any high land boy can see the tragedy behind such a one-crop economy and how few really prosper.

The island government is not actively promoting emigration, but it does support on the ground that this is the only way to prevent social stagnation from replacing stagnation.

"We need the breathing space, and the time to industrialize that rich a mass movement gives," exclaims Luis Muñoz Marín, Mayor, President and head of the dominant political party, the Popular.

"The Puerto Ricans are not trepanning," says José T. Piñero, first governor since the U.S. took over the island. "We have every right to be in New York or anywhere else on the continent."

Emigrations are had in New York City, I know. But they are new to Puerto Rico.

But while Gov. Piñero justifies the migration, he does not feel that an emigrant person has the right to complain if, when he seeks a new life, his own lack of skill lands him in a dead-end job.

His way, Mr. Piñero proposes to open vocational schools at Ponce, Mayaguez, Arecibo, Humacao and San Juan to train Puerto Ricans so they will have something to offer in their new homes.

Gov. Piñero has warned the legislature that the island must benefit from an agricultural to an industrial economy because sugar and its by-product, rum, have demonstrated that they can not support the population.

A report by the University of Puerto Rico's Social Science Research Centre makes it clear that the migration to New York—the boldest that draws most thousands—is no temporary thing.

"The pressure of population on resources in Puerto Rico is a menace to the welfare of the people," says the report. "Emigration alone holds little hope as a solution. The situation is so desperate, however, that emigration must be included in a well-rounded program for attacking our over-population. It must be backed with education, initiative and imagination, but also with balanced judgment."

TO BLAME . . . This is Spanish Harlem in New York, where gutters littered in empty lot next to brick tenements, and where every a distant Puerto Rican would say.

playground plant too new to be most luxurious hotels in the tropics found in sugar-manage — in place of — in hope of capitalizing on Puerto more costly raw materials.

These plants employ only a few tractors.

A china manufacturer has discovered that he can put downware factories here from other lands with the New York by ship from mainland of low cost and tax savings. — than cheaper than from the upstate area. There is no federal income tax in Puerto Rico. The Domestic Small Company is offering new tax advantages to output several times.

Some day these offers may bear fruit and make Puerto Rico capable of feeding its own millions. Manufacturing with use of hagsans most barren and urban workers in an island plant. Capital, the world's largest grain handlers, is planning mills here. The David Smith—and further degradation — segment Co. is building one of the New York.

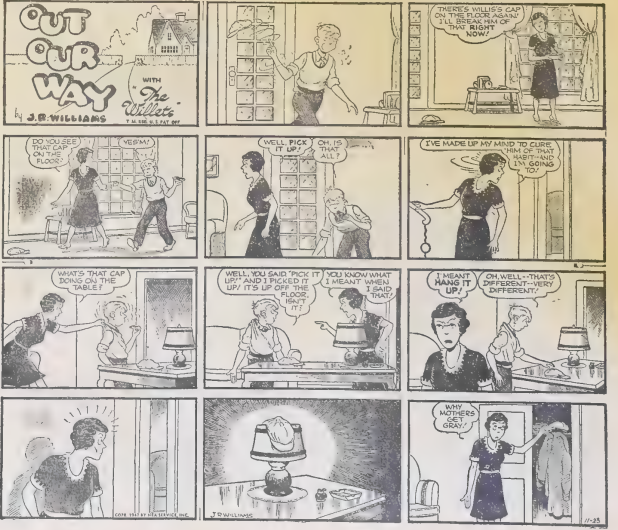

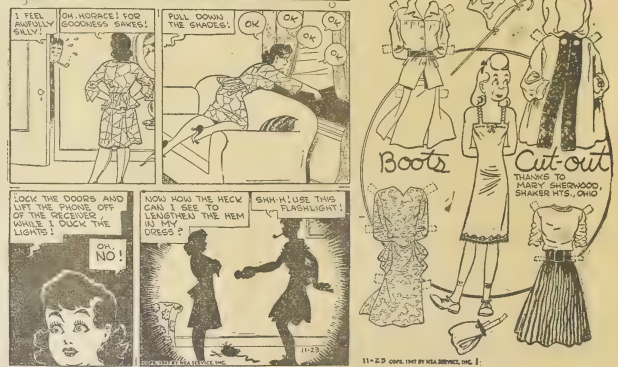

After being sworn in as mayor of High Wycombe, England, C. H. Baker, in emotional language, is weighed in against the century-old custom. Legend has it that the mayor and his councilors must be sworn in during their tenure of office.

MacArthur's Japanese Neighbour

He Lives in Shack by the General's Quarters, But Shirokane Has Never Heard of Democracy

In the shadow of the impressive U.S. Embassy in Tokyo, home of Supreme Commander Douglas MacArthur, Shirokane tends the tiny canteen by his shabby home. From across the street, MacArthur tries to teach democracy to Japan, but for his message has failed to reach Shirokane.

By RICHARD O. PERKINSON
REA Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, (UPI)—One of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's closest Tokyo neighbors never heard of democracy or Japan's new democratic constitution.

He is Shirokane Shirokane, 41, a busy little fellow who has no time to get out for his family to worry about affairs of state.

"It's a great honor to be Gen. MacArthur's neighbor but I'm usually too busy to notice him come and go."

Then Shirokane looked out from his home of salvaged, cordoned wood and tin and a burned-out old automobile body toward the massive, unadorned U.S. Embassy where MacArthur lives.

"We do our best to keep our place clean because we live so close to Gen. MacArthur. My boy comes around the house several times a day but we can't afford paper or better materials for his house."

"I don't make enough money to buy newspapers or a radio. I have to work from morning to midnight just to feed my family so I don't even have time to think about the Government."

Food is the biggest problem for Japanese today. Shirokane knows MacArthur is doing what he can but it isn't enough to help him.

"I earn 500 yen a month as a tailor but we spend 800 yen a month for food, so we are selling our children and families to live. My wife and I only must care for our

Scientists Now Produce Snow That's Housebroken

By NEA Service.

RIAN College, Pa., (UPI)—The process of creating dry ice in the clouds to make it snow where or when you want it to be a new competitor. Meteorologists now have a way to preserve snow flakes as they are lost from overflying in a nice warm room, without creating the kind of messes that snow makes. And they do it without dry ice, right in their laboratory. Pennsylvania State College scientists who are making this latest bid to snow-making fame, say it's the first time snow crystals have been produced indoors by a process imitating their natural production in the clouds.

The snow crystals were produced by J. Ross Neuberger and Dr. Hans Neuberger of the Penn State meteorology division. Since they were trying to find out more about the ideal conditions that hamper winter flying, they were looking for the conditions necessary to make snow crystals, rather than a way to make nature drop a monstrosity.

Neuberger and Neuberger took ordinary air, saturated with water vapor, and cooled it in a chamber to 15 degrees below zero. Then they expanded it to 100 per cent of its original volume in close imitation to the changes that occur in a natural cloud being formed in rising air currents.

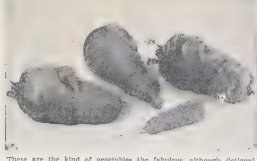

Brown crystals, the thousands of an inch across, were pulled out and had a chemical solution called formvar; when the snow evaporated, it left perfect formvar replicas of the ice crystals.

Along with the ice crystals, the experimenters found numerous supercooled droplets of water which decreased in size and number as the temperature dropped.

"These crystals," Dr. Neuberger explained, "form ice coating on a plane flying through a cloud containing them. Since the ice coating depends on the number and size of the droplets, the lower the temperature, the less dangerous they are for planes."

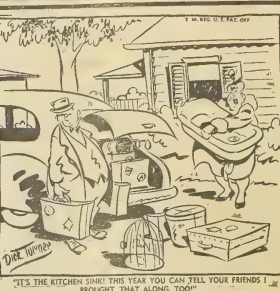

The dry ice weather-makers will have it over the Penn State meteorologists, however. With their dry ice seeds, they can make it rain as well as snow. But Neuberger and Neuberger haven't found any way to save the drops of rain in their original form for use in study on a nice dry day.

From Little Seeds Great Carrots Grow

These are the kind of vegetables the fabians, although fictional, character Groucho was raised on. "They're carrots, carrots worthing you pounds of carrots, all except that only little one thing in the foreground. What does the root weigh? Well, this isn't exactly a real carrot, it's a little of it. That's a vegetable carrot when compared to the ones harvested last month by John Nibbel, a native metropolitan, who knew a good thing when he saw it and immediately photographed these giants.

DO IT NOW

Comes the first week of January. Lindsay taxpayers will be asked whether or not they are willing to take the financial risk of a $100,000 plan for the local arena. This proposal will be to the taxpayers' ears. The Lindsay City Council, after much urging of the Lindsay Recreation Commission, has decided to accept the plan. Since the proposal was made much work has been done on the part of the city and the arena is now being planned. The Lindsay Recreation Commission has been working on the plan for some time. Ten-Cent Candy Bars Coming Ere Too Long Chatham, Nov. 20 (BUP)—The Canadian and United Sugar Companies' Weekly Milling Bulletin at Chatham, says that Canadian candy manufacturers are now planning that chocolate bar prices will be reduced to ten cents.

The publication says the main reason for the advancing cost of the candy is due to the skyrocketing price of cocoa beans. In 1941 the beans cost $1.50 a pound, but now they will be admitted by the price that time they have advanced to $2.50 a pound.

Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy Dead, Religious Character Lived Here

Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy, 76, member of the late world famous evangelist and a former resident of Lindsay, died in her sleep Sunday at her home in Toronto, British Columbia. While a resident of there she resided on Lindsay St. 8, and her husband was a member by trade, she will be remembered by many local residents.

Death was believed due to a heart attack but the body was turned over to the coroner for examination.

Mrs. Kennedy, an evangelist for years before she broke with her husband and others at Alvin Temple, headquarters of Alvin Temple, was a resident of Lindsay, British Columbia, where she was just seen yesterday by Rev. R. F. Mansel, a neighbor. Her body was discovered by her secretary, Mrs. Marie Mansel.

Nance told authorities that Mrs. Kennedy informed him, "I want you to take care of me, I want you to take care of me."

Her husband was a member of the world famous evangelist and a former resident of Lindsay, died in her sleep Sunday at her home in Toronto, British Columbia.

This statement has been reported in Halifax by Premier Arthur Macdonald, of Nova Scotia, in answer to charges of the Canadian regime that performance is not being shown to veterans.

Crisis May Spell Doom For The Attilie Gov't.

(British United Press)

Britain appeared today to be headed for a food crisis that may raise the biggest threat so far to the Labor Government.

Conservative party sources in London say that Winston Churchill "could be the best man off in the land" if the government were to collapse.

And Churchill warned—so recently as Saturday—that the government is spending extravagantly and bankrupting throughout the country.

Many political observers are agreed that food likely is the one factor that could topple the government.

The rest, they think, may come soon after the turn of the year when its expected Britishers will be asked to pay more for food.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps yesterday has told the British House of Commons that the average British citizen's diet will be reduced from the present 28 pounds and seven ounces to 24 pounds and seven ounces.

Specifically, it's forecast that the British Government will cut the ration of meat from three pounds a week to two and a half pounds a week.

And its foremen told that point values of other foods will be cut.

The deteriorating food situation here has led to rumors that Lord Pim will resign his post.

But Pim himself has said that he will remain in his post.

Behind the Red Riots in Italy

The existence of Communist-inspired mobs and riotous activities along with the withdrawal of American troops increasing the need of that country's democratic groups for support against the Red menace. The picture-story below traces the growth of the powerful leftist factions who now openly threaten to plunge Italy into civil war.

Italy after the first World War, saw the Social-Inte emerge as the party of strength. But two important elements were left out from the Socialists: the Communists and Fascist parties. After 1918, action and Italian the Nationalist Fascist movement. The Communist general strike in 1922. By 1926, liberalism in Italy had been strangled.

Commentaries in Italy at present continue to revolve around the article as a weapon. Each town has its Chamber of Labor, and every worker is a member. The chambers are completely Communist-dominated. Led by Palmiro Togliatti, the Reds, in many ways, attempt to discredit the Government. Riots and looting are daily occurrences throughout the land.

Three-Cent Dinner

By PATT WATTS

NEA Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (UPI).

My complete dinner the other day was a small bowlful of a cereal-like food—and it contained nutrition equal to a meal of meat, potatoes, vegetables and milk. This multi-purpose food looks like Graham flour before it is cooked, and like breakfast cereal after. Five hundred thousand pounds of it are being sent to Europe.

The "Food for Millions" Foundation in Los Angeles donated this nutritious, cheap and delectable food to feed hungry people in Europe. It costs only three cents a meal, and can be mixed with vegetables or meats to extend meager portions to feed a family. Made of coarsely ground soybeans, with onion and vitamin supplements added for flavor and nutrition, this multi-purpose food is delectable so that only two cents—about the price of a cupcake—is an entire meal.

Dr. Henry Beaman of California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, compounded this food in his biochemistry laboratory. It was aided by Clifford Clinton, a Los Angeles restaurant owner, who, during the depression, needed a dish to serve hungry persons who had little or no money.

The soy bean food is still served in Clinton's restaurant here, and when I visited the cafe to see who would order multi-purpose food, I found few customers were not inquisitive people who wanted a cheap meal, but persons from many economic brackets who ate the soy bean preparation before they ate the same time. The price of a normal meal serves it plain, like a meat loaf, or with vegetables. It assumes a different taste when mixed with cheese for a casserole, and can be used in soup for increased nourishment.

One veteran, who is supporting his family while going to college at the GI bill, says the food is what keeps his household on a budget. And at the same time, he knows his wife and children are getting balanced meals.

This soy bean product has the combined flavors of meat, celery

Politics in Italy today are fraught with discontent and conflicting loyalties. Pietro Nenni, a socialist, is often a Communist spokesman. A rightist group, the Union Quilante, was strong last year, but is believed near collapse. Recently, Reds created their newspaper office. A non-partisan group, the MLI, claims 150,000 members. Middle-classes look to the Government.

Unlike France Italy has not split into two extreme factions. The Government's moderate Christian Democrats, since the last election, declined in strength. The Communist bloc consisted about half alone, whereas right-wing extremists lost much ground. Italy faces a wave of communism vs. everyone else.

What Man Made on Corregidor Dead or Dying

Down again, this time for good, the Rock's American flag is folded and carefully carried away.

What on that rock, everything that Men created is dying, or dead.
It's quiet on Corregidor, now, except over the rusted remains of the big guns that once thundered.

Corregidor, while the last gallant remnant of American-Filipino themselves—only death or savage captivity remained possible.

On the peak-marked wall, behind the ruins of barracks and other Army installations are bullet holes against the sky.
Clicks up the dusty road. In the undergrowth on either side burst the big guns, at crazy angles, with deep grooves bitten out of their barrels by burning Jap shells back.
They look forgotten and forlorn
as the stars slowly claim them.

Tin buildings you pass are shattered ruins. Their roofs are gone, their steel beams exposed to sun and rain. Big chunks of massive concrete walls hang limply, supported only by steel reinforcing rods.

IT PAYS TO BE LATE

Tardy Clock-Puncher Docked, But Earns More . . .

By Bill Trent

DEAR Mr. Abbott:

This is not about prize. It's about a local company's operations. There's a doctor. Every body's figuring on coming in late in the clock-punching department. It costs them less than the money I earn, one fact, how said. And the term is spreading.

The company has entered the following into the files under "Latest Due to Employee Withing to Better Himself" (sub-titled clock-punching). But I don't add up.

John K. Strauss (English for speed correctly sign the account). Being department got it wrong! If an employee who has had $4.25 deducted in income taxes every Friday from his regular full week's pay.

One morning last week, though, John K. Strauss got up late, trying probably set up all night trying to balance the budget with the help of algebra and what the dictionary calls "infinitesimal calculation." He arrived at the office a few minutes late.

That was bad—until the following Friday came around. When he carried up his pay envelope he found he had lost 16 cents of regular pay. But he had no deduction had dropped 25 cents.

John K. had lost 16 cents and gained 25, giving him 15 cents more than he would normally have received.

The case would have slipped down to the back of the file cabinet to be buried in dust and old thumbtacks but word got around that John K. was directing his arithmetic away from budget balancing (which was hopeless anyway) and turning it to mathematics.

The plan includes such calculations as if 16 cents being 16 cents, how much will 20 cents carry? If you continually lose time, will you reach a point where you'll be earning less?

Confusing? The whole punch clock staff is watching John K. carefully. If he succeeds in a plan, there is an even chance the company may lose three weeks' pay on one morning because everybody may come in a few minutes late.

The problem poses no special difficulty for it can't punch clocks so I can't win. I know the reason for the decrease in tax deduction was the result of failing into a lower earning bracket. I know also that in turn this gave him more money though he worked less.

What wonder is it that John K. has found a formula for working less and earning more, a lot of other people may follow him.

And what will happen to your department? Yes, I'm worried.

If the government loses too much money, it may have to resort to other means of collecting. And that will be a problem, too, because there's nothing left that could stand an increase.

With hopes and set forebodings, I am sincerely Bill Trent.

P.S.—John K. has just advised me he has worked out a formula that will give him enough money to pay a down deposit on his back income tax payments.

Sunday School Teachers Enjoy Religious Films

Cobourg (PMB)—A very pleasant evening was spent recently by the teachers and interested friends of Holy Sunday School, in the Ramseyer Reformatory school-house, when sound and silent film material for use in Sunday Schools, were shown by Rev. Mr. Cross and Mr. McCreary of Lindsay.

The devotional period was under the direction of Miss Gladys Gifford, O.R.C.O. president for this district. Following this the films were shown with Mr. Cross in charge.

An object lesson was very capably demonstrated by Mr. Ramseyer. Miss Gifford was also present and a few words to say to the children much to their delight.

A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Cross and Mr. Ramseyer for their cooperation in bringing the films here. Thanks were also extended Miss Gifford for her aid in the project and to the teachers and children who had been instrumental towards the success of the evening.

A delicious lunch was served and a social time enjoyed by all present.

Former Ontario Liberal Leader Dies At Oshawa

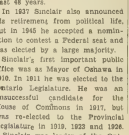

Oshawa, Nov. 25.—(P.M.)—A former Ontario Liberal leader, E. W. Sinclair, Member of Parliament for Ontario riding died at his home in Oshawa today after a lengthy illness.

Sinclair, who was 74, announced two weeks ago that he would retire from the law practice which he has conducted in Oshawa for the past 40 years.

In 1927 Sinclair also announced his retirement from political life, but in 1942 he accepted a nomination to contest a Federal seat and was elected by a large majority. Sinclair's first important public office was as Mayor of Oshawa in 1940. In 1941 he was elected to the Ontario Legislature. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the House of Commons in 1941, but was re-elected to the Provincial Legislature in 1943, 1947 and 1948.

Sinclair was leader of the Ontario Liberal Party for eleven years.

Snowy Weather Stops Bombers

Hamilton, Nov. 26 (UPI)—The Western Postal champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers were again humiliated by the westerners yesterday in their practice for the Dominion final in Toronto next Saturday against the Eastern champion Toronto Argonauts.

The Blue Bombers have not had a victory yet because of the heavy snows they have met. However Coach Earl Bitt has his charges being down on past defense, which he figures he'll need to stop the Argos from scoring on the offense.

The Argos are making things easy for us as the snow is in our favor.

Biltmore Loses Bauer As Coach

Ottawa, Nov. 26 (UPI)—The coach of the Quebec Biltmore entered into the Junior C.M.A.—Biltmore team—has resigned.

Bauer, a former member of the Biltmore's former team, has been named as coach of the Quebec Biltmore.

His resignation was received yesterday by club officials and on the new coach has not been chosen.

LOOKING BETTER

Lindsay's junior hockey club which will be entered in Junior "C" this season, looks to be headed for a good year as a result of action taken place in late—will interest and help continue to increase. Tuesday night, the Athletic Club added several to the Junior executive.

The executive read like this: Coach—Edgar Wainwright; Manager—Dick; Assistant Manager—Bob Chapman; Treasurer—Bert; Publicity Committee—W.J. Ferguson; Brian Wright and this one: The Junior will be the sole effort of the LAG this winter and the club looks to be up with a winning team—these things are being done at a little better way than before. All that is needed now is a good grouping and that looks on paper to show.

MOSTLY SCRAPINGS

BERT HICK and Ralph Walker will represent Lindsay at the O.M.A. annual in Toronto this Saturday.

THE LOCAL BASEBALL

has deserves a hand for the work they did on the Stalker field. The new baseball field, which will be built by called Memorial Stadium—under the jurisdiction of the Lindsay Recreation Committee.

THE BASE collected by the LAG for a Memorial Stadium fund is being used to improve the new site.

THE TOWN LEAGUE will really be a level league. It is found that Jr. players are not needed.

HAMILTON TTD-BNS moved to within two points of Toronto Matthews by taking Owen Sound to a 3-3 tie Tuesday night.

BOSTON BRUINS are late over first in the 1948, with a win over Chicago this p.m.

ALL ROADS in Little Britain Friday for the TOL, tonight. All falls have been invited to leave the summer break after the banquet—free of charge—ABOUT 10 turned out for the first baseball drill for Lindsay's Lakeshore entry.

Baseball players were there in numbers.

While the regular K&N hockey night has been eliminated, the Juvetons will play one game each week before the town league game.

THAT does it.

Council Proceedings

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

MAIL EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS

Are you forever intending to send your Christmas mail early... but always leaving it until the last possible minute? Remember that Post Offices are always busy places—adding loads to overcrowded staffs. Why not start a little earlier and make sure that your mail arrives in time for Christmas? Your help will speed up handling and lessen the extra load placed on the delivery system. Your consideration for others will prove your own "Good Citizenship."

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Back From Lonely Lifeboat Vigil Off Newfoundland

Survivors of a four-hour battle against the elements off the Newfoundland coast in a small wooden lifeboat were on the way to the rescue of a stranded crew on another British ship, these 14 officers and men of the fast-lip ship HMS MacCallum arrived in Montreal recently on their way to reach their ship in port. They were left behind at Cape Cod when waves prevented the return to their ship.

Bossy, the Actress, Deserted by Cast

Old Bossy the cow with the prominent ribcage, fame and fortune had come at last when she tripped the light fantastic on the stage of the Monument National Theatre recently in Montreal.

There she was, right in the middle of the actors from the University of Montreal singing their annual show. For almost an hour she was in her glory, dreaming of the time when her name would be in lights. You know, like Elsie the cow.

But Bossy found, like a good many actors, that fame is fleeting. As was the memory of her fellow actors who left her in the theatre after they marked up their gear and departed for the night.

A startled, startled out of his drooping by the moon of Bossy called the police.

Up came the police to investigate and sure enough they found Bossy in the wings of the stage, badly dishevelled and wet, waiting to go home.

But the police, anxious to help, couldn't do anything immediately. They didn't know where Bossy lived. The only thing left for them to do was to take her down to the police station. They looked her in with the rest of the house, then added a new entry to the police books—found, and homeless cow.

Officers at the station admitted they knew little about cow etiquette after all Bossy was the only one of the species they had ever brought in. Figuring the way to a man's heart is through his stomach they tried the same treatment on Bossy. A bag of oats under her nose, a bit of hay tossed in for good measure, and Bossy was as peaceful as could be.

With no ceremony and only a little regret the boys gave Bossy into the hands of the SPCA. As she left she turned her head, snoot a couple of times, then departed.

The boys are still wondering if the moon were words of thanks or just—"Thank, heaven I'm out of that place."

How Can I?

Q. How can I protect playing cards from soil and wear and make them slide easier?
A. This can be easily accomplished if a thin coating of paraffin wax is applied to each card, both face and back. It will also preserve their original stiffness.
Q. How can I lighten stuffy stuffings, cushions, or any stuff that is luscious to be a little heavy?
A. By adding a teaspoonful of baking powder before stuffing. Q. How can I polish lamp shades with no sponges?
A. Add a little paraffin to the blocking and it will adhere.
